

List Question from Melt the Walls Open Call

How long can the series of interventions occur / How long is it envisioned the project will be in place for / How long is the project to remain in situ for?

The series of interventions can occur any time from once contracts are signed, 26 July, with at least one activity happening on the 16 September which will function as a launch of the programme.

As long as the activities remain in budget and relevant permissions are gathered the events can run as long as the design team envisions between 26 July - 20 September

How multidisciplinary does the team have to be? / Is there any restrictions on team size?

As long as there is one registered architect on the team we are open to any disciplines being on the team.

No there's no restrictions on team size. We are happy for individual architects to take place should they wish as long as there is an interdisciplinary approach.

How much if this project is a communication project versus and architectural intervention / object?

As this is a complex issue we're open to complex solutions! While we would like an architectural intervention to occur, communicating that this is happening to the surrounding neighbours of the site and cultural institutions is also important.

Are the awarded team expect to forge new connections with surrounding neighbours and other stakeholders to encourage further community co-design?

The IAF can support the awarded team by connecting them to groups we have already been working with in the area, if you happen to have more chats with other people along the way that's good too!

Does the budget include / reflect Design fee, VAT ...etc

The budget will have to include design fee, VAT and all costs of the project. You will be required as part of your application to supply a budget proposal reflecting this/

What is the final date for the object /occurrence to be in place ?

The object or occurrence must be in place for the 16th September
